ETHICS OF JOURNALISM.

Words of counsel and warning were addrassed to journalists at a Momorial Hall , gathering of the Congregrational Union on May 13, by Mr D. C. Lathbury, late editor of the Pilot.

Close upon half a century has passed, he said, since he dropped his first article into the box of the Morning Star. Its office was on the spot where the New Gaiety. Theatre new stood. The change might be a parable of English journalism. It was now lighter, but he did not know that it conduced to less heaviness on the part of the reader. Punch was ever full of laughter. but no paper had better maintained the dignity of the English Press. Fifty years ago, however, journalists thought more of journalism and loss of themselves. It was anonymous, and a small profession. But now a new public had created a new journa-

Touching on the relations between editor and capitalists, Mr Lathbury said it could hardly be a matter of indifference whether Free Trade or Tariff Reform shaped the future. A journalist should always be ready to sweep a crossing rather than give 1376 way on vital points.

On the question of betting news, he said in one case a proprietor had faced the question and answered it in heroic fashion by deciding to exclude terf news. He had great respect for such horoic action, but he thought the judgment was mistaken. The function of a newspaper was to give a picture of the world, and make what comments it liked. The exclusion of such nows gave a false air of innocence to the news that was admitted. Stock Exchange and football intelligence might be as dan gerous as turf news. So with bad playsif notices of them were excluded, the public would have no guide. If Divorce Court proceedings were left out, the terrors of that Court would be greatly lessened, and the intervention of the King's Prector in collusive actions might be curtailed. For all these things decent reserve of language was better than exclusion. On the question of an edite's relations to his contributors, there were two vlows. Locks had said the test of a good editor. was to rewrite an article without the contributor discovering it. Others declared no alteration should be made. But it should be remembered, said-Mr-Lathbury, -that sometimes, if the matter were excellent the form might be bad, and, further, that the editor was responsible for unsigned articles. The idea that a contributor was expected to change his opinions was greatly exaggorated, for the editor could casily change his contributors to other subjects. The othics of journalism differed but little from the othics of human conduct generally. The difference between the barrister and the journalist was this-that the one was avowedly an advocate, whereas the journalist was supposed to be the jury -that is, to give his opinion after weighing both sides.

A TEN DAYS' SIEGE,

One Man Defies 709 Soldiers.

CHATELLEHAULT., May 14,-Roy, tho ex-gamekeeper, who for ten days and nights has terrorised the countryside by Sring upon and wounding at least half-adozen persons, has at last been taken prisoner by the authorities.

Desperate measures had to be adopted before the 'fort' in which he had entrenched himself fell. No fewer than 60" Infantry and three brigades of gendarmes surrounded the place, and, though Rov had been 'sniped' at continuously, it was not until his dwelling-place had been partially demolished by melinite, that he fell a into the hands of the enemy.

. The siege began in this way. Roy, who is seventy years of age, was convicted of peaching, and this so exasporated him that he swore to be revenged. His first step was to fire on M. Graddpied, whom he accused of having been the cause of getting him dismissed from his situation. Immediately afterwards Roy barricaded himself in his domicile, and declared that he would 'do' for anyone who dared to cross his threshold.

His threat was not an idle one, for when a balliff, brigadier of gendarmes, a sergeant. and a soldier approached the house they were received with a charge of buckshot.

Roy's house was situated on a slight eminence, and he could command the approaches in all directions. He made loop-holes in the walls and kept watch night and day. When anyone came within range of his gun he opened fire. He was well supplied with provisions, and, for several days after being besieged, he appeared at the windows and threw corn and bran to the poultry and rabbits in his garden.

The inhabitants of the district grew to fear him, for they could not pass his dwelling without risk of losing their lives. Finally, they became so incensed that the best plan would be to starve Roy out, resorted to more energetic measures.

It was first of all decided to bombard the house with artillery, but the authorities objected to this plan, so the order was given to blow up part of the citadel with melinite.

At two o'clock 8,000 people had gathered in the vicinity, and those were kept at a safe distance by 700 soldiers. A melinite. fuse, containing 230 charges of that explosive, had been placed against the left wall of the Bouse by an intropid lieutenant and four sappors. Roy apparently suspected nothing, for he made no sign. When all was roady a bugle was blown, and the sentinels, who were close to the doomed fortress, immediately retired.

A moment passed, and then there was a loud report, a violent shock, and a cloud of dust and smoke.

Cautiously a number of soldiers advanced to the house, or what remained of it. The watchful outlaw saw them, coming, and with agility almost incredible in a man of his years, he dropped from a window to the ground and took to his heels.

The crowd saw him and with yells of 'Lynch him' they gave chase across the fields. The old man was soon surrounded. and the infuriated crowd struck and beat him unmercifully. But for the arrival of the soldiers he would have been killed.

A stretcher was procured, and on this he was conveyed to a neighbouring shed. At six o'clock, protected by a strong military escort, he was carried to Chatellerault Hospital, where he now lies in a very battered condition :- D. Express.

"ALL OVER THE WORLD." AN OLD SOLDIER, CURED OF SEVERE IN-DIGESTION, TELLS WHY AND WHERE HE RECOMMENDS MOTHER SEIGEL'S Bynup.

I have since then recommended Mother Seigel's Syrup to my friends all over the world, the Gold Coast expecially."

This is the statement of a veteran soldier of the British army, who was born in the West Indies, served in the Ashanti war and is still in "the service," being employed by the Army Service Corps in the Military Stores at Port Elizabeth. He had suffered for yours from indigestion in Jamaica and has since felt its distressing pains and disablements in Africa. In all cases, on both sides of the world, he turned for actual help, for relief, to Mother-Seigel's Syrun chiefly because his own mother had used it successfully with him and others disher

Mr Carter is a native of Kingston. Jameica, plantation. He collisted in the First West India Regiment and was promoted through various ranks to that of Quarter-Master Sergoent, serving, in all, for 27 years. He lives now at 25. Frere Street. South End, Port Elizabeth. His experience has been so wide spread and unique that what he says is of particular interest, so we give his letter, dated November 21, 1001, just as it was received: THE SOLDIER'S OWN STORY.

as I cannot recollect the exact date of my first attack of indigestion, but anyway I was a Quarter Master Sergeant of the 1st British West India Regiment at the time and stationed at Hingston. I used to feel out of sorts; I always felt as though I had eaten too much, even though, in fact, it would be the smallest morsel. I had a blown-out, puffed-up, sensation after each meal, and I can assure you I felt miserable. The Memembering that my parents had used Mether Seigel's Byrup for the younger members of our family and as they pinned their faith to Mother Seigel's curative powers, I considered I would not go far wrong by giving it a trial my-self. I had suffered for three years and was determined to get rid of my trouble somehow. I was walking up Orange Street, Kingston, Jamaica, when I came to Dr. Goddous' chemist ahop, and there I purchased a bottle of Mother Seigel's Syrup. I used it for about two menths, at the end of which I found I had no further need of medicines or doctors; I was completely uttack of indigestion, but anyway I was a Quarneed of medicines or dectors; I was completely carcal.

I have since then recommended Mother Beigel's Syrap to my friends all over the world, the Gold Coast' especially, where I had to give myself another course of Selgel's owing to the severe climatic conditions, and the generally unhealthy condition of our living. I am still unhealthy condition of our living. I am still enjoying good health and pleased to be able to give you this statement.

DEPARTURES. MAIL STEAMER

The following table is a chronologically arranged list of mail steamer sailings to Europe, America, Canada, and Australia. Coast ports, Manila, and Japan are not given, for steamers are constantly sailing for those ports. All the American steamers call at Japan, and the majority of the Australian boats call at Manila, and, in addition to those vessels, special steamers run there. The departure of every steamer is subject to alteration. The P. & O. mails usually reach London in about 28 days, and the French and German in about 28 or 30 days

There were many rumours circulating in the city to-day reparding affairs at the

Some say that a big engagement has been fought and that Japan has scored an other victory, whilst others have it that the Russian army has been completely sur rounded and another Sedan is about to be perpetrated. We were unable to secure any confirmatory intelligence, though the Japanese Consul, Mr. M. Noma, said he expected news shortly.

CANTON NOTES.

(From Our Correspondent).

THE GILE OROP. CANTON, June 21.

In the early part of the year it was feared that owing to the unexampled weather through which we lived, the crops, and specially the silk industry would suffer materially. The results unfortunately have more than warranted the prognostications. It is now stated that in the Schuntak district, where nine-tenths are dependent. more or less closely on this industry for a livelihood, the results are most disstrous. The crop is less than one half of its usual quantity. The consequence is that the output will not satisfy the demand, and therefore raw silk, and specially that which is destined for the foreign markets, is very

NATIVE CHRISTIANS AND THE AMERICAN

According to a previous arrangement, one the fourteenth of the present Chinese month a large gathering of native Christians met in the American Methodist untive Church in Canton, to protest against the exclusion of the Chinese from the United States. Those present formulated their opinions on the question, and, it is reported, decided to invite the American Missionaries of the city to endotse the pretest. It has not yet transpired whether the request will be complied with or not. It was decided, however, with or without the protest to President Roosevelt.

CHINESE SUPERSTITION.

Queer Story from Amoy.

(From our Correspondent.) AMOY, June 19. I mentioned in my last letter that during the Dragon boat festival one of the boats. in turning in rather a stormy sea, had been upset and a number of men drowned. A very curious superstition, shall I call it. has come to light in connection with that disaster. The body of one of the men was picked up after it had been in the water for several days and it was laid on a little sandy beach and covered with a coarse mat, whilst some of the relatives went to buy a coffin and arrange for the burial. A considerable crowd of Chinese assembled on a bluff near by and sitting on their heels walted patiently to see whether a belief which is widespread among the people here would turn out to be true. It is asserted that if the men who take up the corpse are relatives of the deceased blood will flow from the dead man's nose, but if they are strangers no sign of blood

Here was a case that apparently could be tested, and so the crowd sat as a kind of impromptu Coroner's jury to see whether the popular belief had any foundation in fact for its existence. True enough, when the coffin arrived and The Fourth of July colebrations to be the mat that hid the body from the public

This is a very curious and very interesting fact that may not be disputed, for not only was it witnessed by the Ohinese, but Mrs Shepherd saw it from one of the windows of the Chinese Hospital near by. I the Magistracy, this morning, by the cap- do not pretend to explain or account for it. The Chinese hold that kinship is so sacred a thing that even death does not snap, the The bond that binds relatives together. In this they do but join in the world-wide belief that life and death are inextricably mixed up together, and the living and the dead, in some way profoundly mysterious to us, still keep in touch with each other.

SANDOW AT MADRAS.

His Pupils and Indian Wrestlers.

that have passed between Sandow and the Indian wrestlers have considerably added to for O nton at 9 r.m., on SUNDAYS. the interest taken in his visit to Madras Recently Mahhool Khan, the Indian wreatler, failed to appear to stand up to one of Sandow's pupils, and this was attributed to his courage having failed him at the last moment,

For the disappointment caused by Mah. bool Khan's absence the public were amply repaid by the presence of fresh men ' looking for laurels. Three Indian wrestlers, the leader of whom is named Kareem Buksh, who is reputed to be a clover exponent of the art, had accepted Sandow's offer, and all three were allowed to try conclusions with Sandow's pupils. First, one of Kareem Buksh's juniors was pitted against Sandow's French pupil, to wrestle in the Greece-Roman style. The Frenchman was by far the bigger and heavier man, and, though the little Indian was unable to overthrow his sturdy opponent, he rendered very good account of himself, and there | Electricity. was great excitement when he more than once forced the Frenchman to adopt defeneive tactics. The match ended in a draw. Sandow'e Indian pupil was then pitted against the other junior wrestler and against Karoom Buksh himself. With a thorough knowledge of the art of Indian wrestling. backed by the muscular powers derived from Sandow's system of physical culture, the Indian pupil proved himself superior to both his opponents, and defeated them easily, amidst loud applause.

Mr Sandow's manager has new addressed a direct challenge to Mahbool Khan. I de not want to impute 'funk" to the giant (he on Sundays at 5.30 P.M. writes), but to prove to the public that ace are genuine in our regret, and to ascertain if it is 'funk' that aways Mahabool Khan, I now beg to convert Mr Sandow's offer of R100 (one hundred rupees) for the defeat of two pupils nightly to the sum of R2,000 | 10 Cents. (two thousand rupees) and R1000 (one thousand rupees respectively.

The following is the challenge I now make to Mahbool Khan viz :- (1) If within: the space of 15 (fifteen) or 20 (twenty) minutes (the choice of either of these times to be at the said Mchbool Khan's option) he succeeds in defeating two of Mr Sandow's pupils this (Tuesday) evening, and tomorrow (Wednesday) evening, I will give This the sum of R2,000 (two thousand rupess). (2) If the said Mahbool Khan elects to wrestle one pupil only each eventhem both, I will give him R1,000 (one thousand rupees),

THE GAMBLING MANIA.

Curious Wagers on the War,

The war has been the occasion of some extraordinary bets. Some of the Japanese were so determined to die for their country that several officers made bots that they would be killed in battle. The money was to go to widows. One officer, on starting MOTAL FUNDS AT 31st December, 1903, for the front, made the following wager. If he were killed within a mouth his heirs were to receive £100. After that date he was to pay his opponent ten yen a day until he survived 100 days, after which the bet was to cease. He undertock to expose 10 himself to danger only when military conditions demanded it; in other words, not wilfully to let himself be killed.

For a bet, Captain Hinsky, a St. Peters burg dragoon officer, undertook to cross Asia, reach Kuropatkin's headquarters at Liaoyang, dash through the Japanese lines invading Port Arthur, enter the town, break through the naval brigade, and reach Chifu, in China. He was to get £10,000 if he succeeded, but to pay nothing if he failed. Disguised as a Chinaman, he sauntered calmly through the Japanese army in broad daylight. The Russian forts fired on him, but, on his waving the national flag (which he had wrapped around his body), they welcomed him to the fortress. Three nights later, carrying despatches from Stoessel to prove that he had succeeded, he sailed through the Japanese fleet and reached Chifu. The journey took him six weeks. After risking his life Iliusky nevergot his money. When, within three months after starting, he returned to St. Petersburg, he found 562 the layer of the £10,000 a bankrupt.

More tragic was the result of a Japanese bet. A captive Japanese officer, imprisoned at Omsk, in Siberia, bet the Russian officer in charge of the prisoners a kopeck for ty, &c., &c. We keep always in stock every minute that Fort, Arthur held out after June 1st. He owed his jailor on October 1st nearly £500. The Russian asked for a payment on account, and offered to terminate the bot. The Japanese said nothing, retired to his room, and shot him-solf dead with a revolver. In a moment of excitement Lomakin, a Moscow morchant, undertook to eat his boots ' if Japan were not forced to sue for peace by July let last. Against this his opponent bet 500 roubles. Lomakin ato the boots. But as no time limit was imposed, he cut off and swallowed only a tiny strip each day, completing the achievement on November 20th. His opponent absolved him from eating the pails. Ukhanoff, the Russian military writer. wagered £100 against £1,500 that, before January 1st, 1905, England would be involved in war, and that before January 1st, 1906, Russia would have conquered India as far south as Bombay. - Ba.

THE NORTH SEA FISHERS. INTERVIEW WITH ONE OF THEM.

TT is a hard life trawling with the North Sea Fleet, even without being fired at by Russian warships, and James Barnes, with whom a representative has had a talk, bold a grim tale.

I have bad to give it up, said he, as he son, Saigon June 18, Rice and General. turned from his work of braiding nots CHINESE. shore, 'I was "doctoring" continually during the last five years affont, with a chronic disease of the stomach. The doctor took me to two specialists, but none of them gave me any hope of getting well. They said I must live on milk food only, and that is no diet for a sailor! So I gave up the struggle.

'An old friend of mine who, like myself, had been laid up, was cured-'like magic,' he said-by Dr Williams' pink pills, and I. too, began to take them. So soon did they begin to do me good that, before the third bettle was finished I felt quite my old self. I could take my regular food without the horrible sick faintness after it which made me so miserable before I used these pills. In fact, I improved all round, and am now a younger man altogether, ready any time for a good, hard day's work. I can work from early morning to night, and never feel the Pape, Moji June 17, Coal. — Butter of them said, 'Your stomach has healed The Swire. splendily; and when I told him that was owing to Dr Williams' pink pills, he said, "They have done wonderful things for

Mr Barnes, whose home is at 27, Weststruct, Cleethorpes, Grimsby, England, is one of many bread winners who owe the continuance of their working life to Dr Williams' pink pills. These pills give strength; they are not a purgative. They cure indigestion and stomach disorders, as they cure rheumatism, oczema, anomia, and other disorders arising out of impoverished or poisoned blood, by making now blood. St Vitus' dance, paralysis, fits, norvous breakdown, and other nerve troubles are cured hy thom in the same way, and women know why the new, regular blood which these pills make does them so much good, Dr Williams' Medicine Co., Holbornviaduct; London, send a bottle for two shillings and ninepence, or six for thirteen and nine; but they can be had at most medicine shops.
